

Interpreting Archaeological Data in RAAD: The Basics

Identifying a Direct Overlap with an Archaeological Site

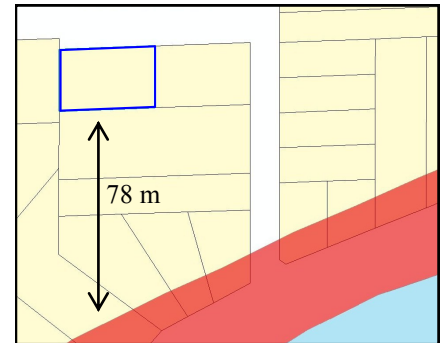

A direct overlap with an archaeological site is identified when the archaeological site is located on the property or within 50 metres of the property.

☒ Direct Overlap with an Archaeological Site (true overlap)

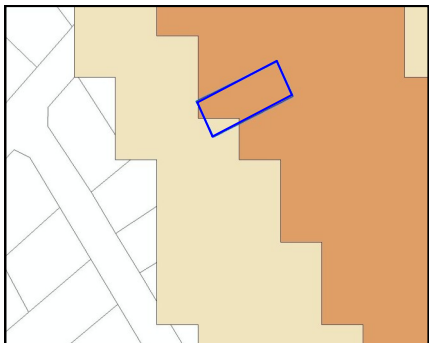

☒ Direct Overlap with an Archaeological Site (within 50 m)

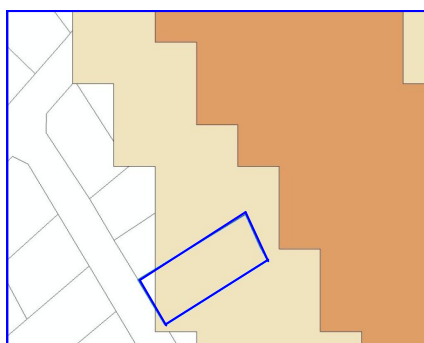

No Overlap

Identifying a Direct Overlap with an Area of Archaeological Potential

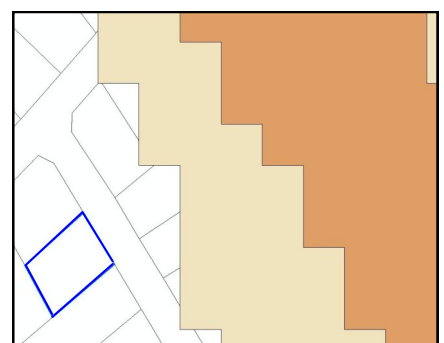

A direct overlap with an area of archaeological potential is identified when the property falls within the dark brown zone. If the property falls outside of the dark brown zone, then archaeological potential is low or unknown.

☒ Direct Overlap with an Area of Archaeological Potential

No Overlap

No Overlap

Understanding the Key Map Layers

Map Layers

- ☒ Archaeological Data
 - ☒ Provincial Cadastral (ICI)
 - ☒ Archaeology Site Labels
 - ☒ Archaeological Sites
 - ☒ Historic Places
 - ☒ Archaeological Overview Assessments
- ☐ Administrative Boundary Layers
- ☐ Base Map Layers
- ☐ Grids and Images

Refresh Map

Archaeological Sites: Archaeological sites are displayed as red polygons. These sites are automatically protected under the Heritage Conservation Act and are predominantly sites of First Nations heritage that pre-date AD 1846, burial places, rock art, and wrecks. Archaeological sites are managed by the Archaeology Branch.

Archaeological Overview Assessments: This layer contains archaeological potential mapping where available. It identifies areas that have significant potential to contain unknown but protected archaeological sites. Areas with significant archaeological potential are displayed as dark brown polygons.

Provincial Cadastral (ICI): This layer displays parcel boundaries.

Historic Places: Historic Places are displayed as green polygons. These are predominantly built heritage sites that post-date AD 1846 and are formally recognized or protected under various legislation. Historic Places are managed by the Heritage Branch.