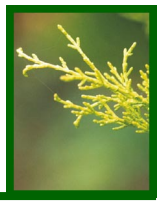
Introduction

This is the fourth annual report on compliance and enforcement of the Forest Practices Code of British Columbia Act (the Code) and its regulations, which came into effect on June 15, 1995. The report gives an objective picture of compliance and enforcement activities from June 15, 1998 to March 31, 1999 and provides a follow-up to annual reports previously published.

The reporting time frame of this report varies from previous annual reports. For only this year, the reporting timeframe is June 15, 1998 to March 31, 1999. This transition from previous annual reports of June 15 to June 14 allows for future annual reports to match government's reporting periods of April 1 to March 31 of the following year. Future Compliance and Enforcement Branch Annual reporting timeframes will be from April 1 to the following March 31.

This report contains statistics recorded by the British Columbia Ministry of Forests (MOF) and the Ministry of Environment, Lands and Parks. The report covers compliance and enforcement activities with respect to forest practices carried out by major licencees, small business licencees, woodlot licencees and mining, petroleum and natural gas companies holding licences to cut.

Copies of this report are available from the Ministry of Forests, Compliance and Enforcement Branch, or by accessing the government Internet page: http://www.for.gov.bc.ca/enforce/index.htm. If there are discrepancies between the printed copy and the copy of the Annual Report on the website, the posted copy of the Annual Report on the website is considered correct.



Statistical Summary

The information contained in this report reflects the ministries fourth year of gathering information about enforcement activities under the Code. The majority of information is generated from the Ministry of Forest's Enforcement Action, Administrative Review and Appeal Tracking System (ERA). The Enforcement Program of the Ministry of Environment, Lands and Parks manages a database of environmental enforcement activities under a range of environmental legislation — including the Code — called the Conservation Officers On-line Reporting System (COORS). COORS can generate reports on activities, either by the type of industrial activity, or by legislation. The statistics of this report were complied by combining the data from ERA and COORS databases.

During the period from June 15, 1998 to March 31, 1999, ~~38,032~~* scheduled and unscheduled harvest and road inspections were completed. These inspections identified 1,731 problems/incidents that were dealt with in the field or required further investigation. Of these, four are still under investigation, while 536 have been the subject of formal measures. Informal measures, such as compliance notices issued by field staff, are useful and practical mechanisms to help avert contraventions and ensure compliance with the Code. Formal measures are used when an official determines that the Code has been contravened and a formal sanction is warranted. It is important to note that the number of administrative remedies specified for the reporting period are subject to revision depending on the outcome of reviews or appeals.

For the reporting period, 23 administrative reviews have been requested under the Code of which 2 have been withdrawn, and 11 appeals have been filed with the Forest Appeals Commission, of which none had been withdrawn. During the period, 54 reviews and 40 appeals were scheduled to be heard. Some of these were requested in a previous reporting period. Since the Forest Practices Code came into force there have been a total of 209 administrative reviews requested of which 16 have been withdrawn. In addition, 82 appeals have been filed with the Forest Appeals Commission, of which 25 have been withdrawn.

 Subsequent analysis has shown that this number should be 28,644. This will affect any statistic or chart based on inspections or the number of inspections. [June 2, 2004]

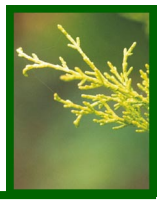
Commonly Asked Questions:



What does a contravention mean?

Under the Forest Practices Code of BC Act, licencees must comply with "on-the-ground" regulatory requirements. They must follow strict planning rules to ensure timber harvesting, road construction and other forest practices are carried out in a way that will adequately manage and conserve forest resources. Where required by the tenure agreement, licencees must also reforest harvested areas, maintain and deactivate forest roads, and do whatever is necessary to rehabilitate areas that have been disturbed by their activities.

The risk of failure is always borne by the licencees. Any failure to meet a Code requirement — even when the failure is not the licencee's fault — is a contravention. For example, under the Code, a major licencee must reforest harvested areas. Any failure to do so is a contravention of the Code — even if the failure is due to weather, insect infestation, or other factors beyond the licencee's control.

As a result, the question of fault is important in selecting appropriate enforcement actions. If the licencee is not at fault, as in the case of the licencee who fails to reforest an area due to weather or insect infestation, administrative remedies are used to ensure the licencee does not profit from the contravention, and either fixes the problem or compensates the Crown. If the licencee is at fault, administrative remedies can also be used to deter any recurrence.

In cases of serious contraventions licencees may also be prosecuted for an offence.

What are inspections?

Inspections are a review of the "on-the-ground" practices and are used to determine whether the forest practices are carried out in compliance with statutory and contractual requirements.

These inspections cover the obligations of both licencees and the government.

What is monitoring?

Monitoring encompasses activities that focus on the management processes used to promote, assess and enforce compliance, including the assessment of risk, the allocation of inspection resources and the appropriateness of enforcement actions.

Why are audits performed?

Audits are done to assess the effectiveness and enforceability of the forest practice requirements and the efficiency and effectiveness of the Ministry of Forest's compliance and enforcement program.

What does it mean if a licencee is given a monetary penalty?

Monetary penalties are one of the administrative remedies available under the Forest Practices Code of BC Act. The fact that a licencee has been assessed a monetary penalty means that a senior government official has determined that the licencee has failed to meet a requirement of the Code.

Monetary penalties (like other administrative remedies such as stopwork orders and remediation orders) are used to ensure the licencee bears the risk of any failure to meet a Code requirement. They can also be used as a disciplinary measure if the failure to meet the Code is caused by carelessness or misconduct.

However, monetary penalties should not be confused with fines that can be imposed by a Court if a licencee is prosecuted and convicted for an offence.

When are licencees held accountable?

Licencees are always accountable for any contravention of the Code. Any licencee who contravenes the Code — even one whose conduct is entirely blameless — may be required to remedy the contravention or to compensate the Crown for the contravention Administrative remedies, including monetary penalties, are used to ensure this is done. In addition, such remedies are used to ensure the licencee does not profit from the contravention.

Finally, if a contravention of the Code occurs as a result of carelessness or misconduct on the part of the licencee, increased monetary penalties can be imposed as a disciplinary measure and the licencee may be denied harvesting rights (this option is often referred to as performance based harvesting). In cases of serious contraventions, the licencee may also be prosecuted for an offence.

When are prosecutions recommended?

Where investigations identify the person(s) responsible:

- for unauthorized harvest;
- of theft;
- of other contravention(s) of the Code;
- is wilful or significantly negligent;
- is a repeat offender; or
- has caused significant damage.

Prosecutions are also recommended when it is in the public interest to prosecute, and it is common for either the ministry or RCMP to recommend to Crown Counsel that the person(s) be prosecuted. The final decision as to whether or not to prosecute lies solely with the Crown Counsel (the Ministry of Attorney General).

What is a violation ticket?

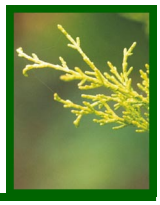
A violation ticket is a form of prosecution. Tickets carry set fines for specified offences and once a ticket has been issued no other form of prosecution for the offence for which the ticket was issued can occur. Due diligence and officially induced errors are defences for violation tickets.

What are the unauthorized harvest statistics?

Since the Code was implemented, there have been 544 monetary penalties levied for unauthorized harvest of crown timber.

Penalties for unauthorized harvesting range up to $206,795.51 and total $2,019,270.35. During the same period, there have been 174 Violation Tickets issued for various incidents of unauthorized harvesting, with fines totalling $30,556.

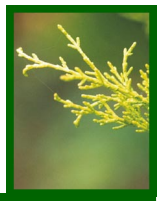
Violation Tickets and Administrative Penalties Summary



Violation tickets issued during reporting period Monetary amount of tickets during reporting period	174 $30,556
Violation tickets issued since June 15, 1995 Monetary amount of tickets since June 15, 1995	662 $109,306
Administrative penalties levied during reporting period Monetary amount of penalties during reporting period	140 $602,744
Administrative penalties levied since June 15, 1995 Monetary amount of penalties since June 15, 1995	934 $4,791,263

The above table provides a summary of the total monetary value of penalties and violation tickets issued under the Code.

Compliance and Enforcement Statistics for the Forest Practices Code



JUNE 15, 1998 – MARCH 31, 1999

The following compliance and enforcement statistics represent a snapshot in time. The ERA database is updated daily to reflect the most current information. Consequently, the figures in this report reflect information current to March 31, 1999, respecting incidents that occurred between June 15, 1998 and March 31, 1999.

The table on the next page summarizes all Code related compliance and enforcement activity that took place during the reporting period. The following notes give more details about the four "circles" on the chart.

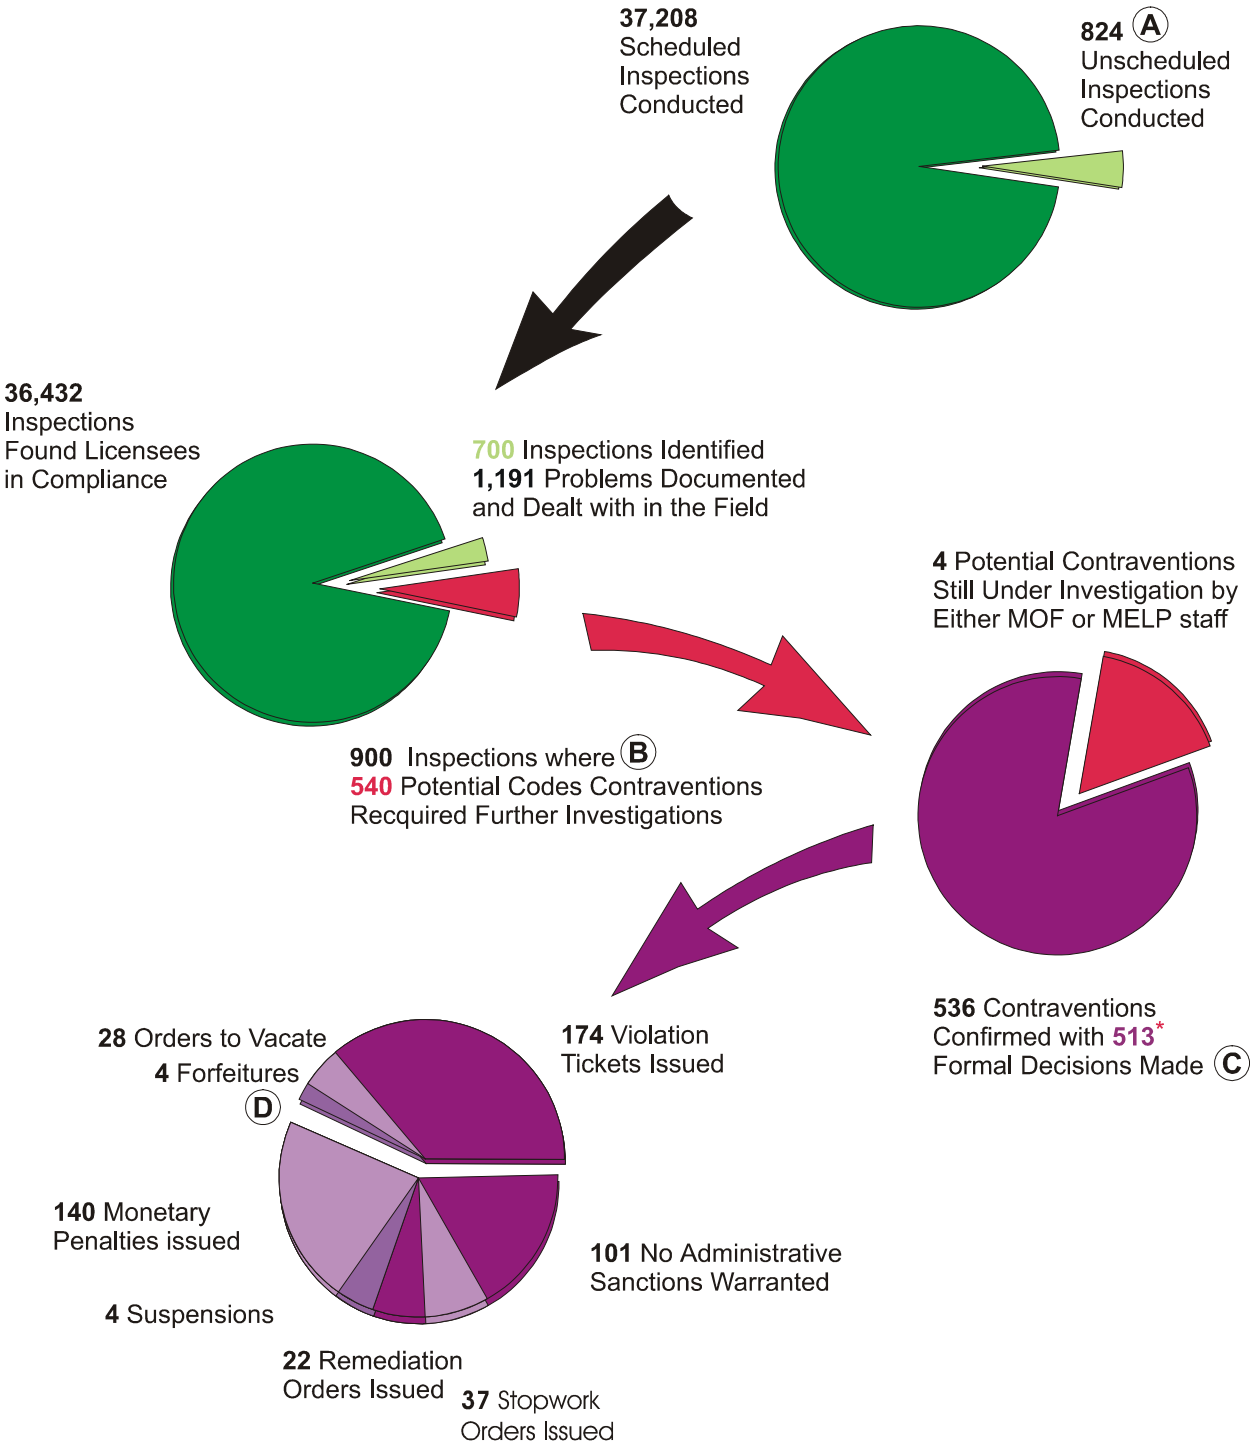
A Unscheduled inspections are conducted to address potential contraventions identified by MOF staff or reported by other agencies or the public.

B An inspection may identify both problems dealt with in the field and potential Code contraventions requiring further investigation.

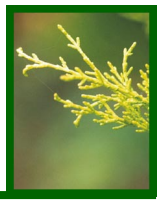
C An inspection may identify one or more potential contraventions of the Code. * Also, some inspections are conducted as follow-ups to monitor compliance with instructions, etc.

D One contravention may result in more than one formal decision being made. Alternatively, several contraventions may be addressed through a single formal decision.

Inspection Statistics Table

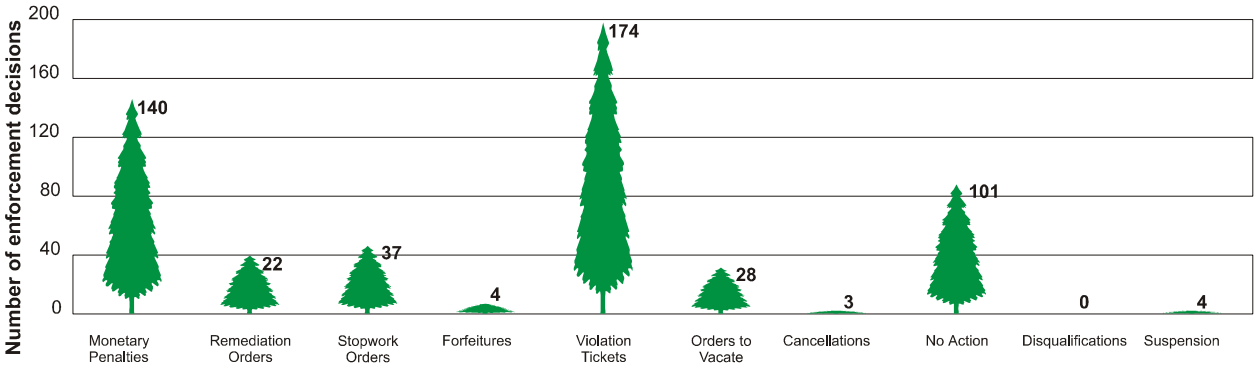


* Note: The table does not include any prosecutions or tickets issued by other agencies, however, any tickets are identified in Appendix 2.



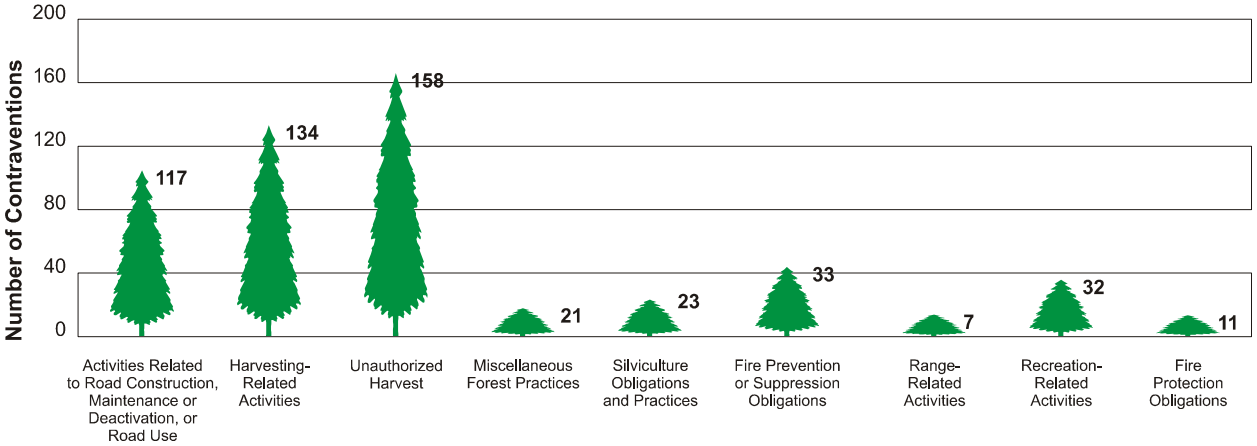
Program Statistics

Provincial Total of Formal Enforcement Decisions



This table shows the frequency of formal enforcement decisions made to address contraventions.

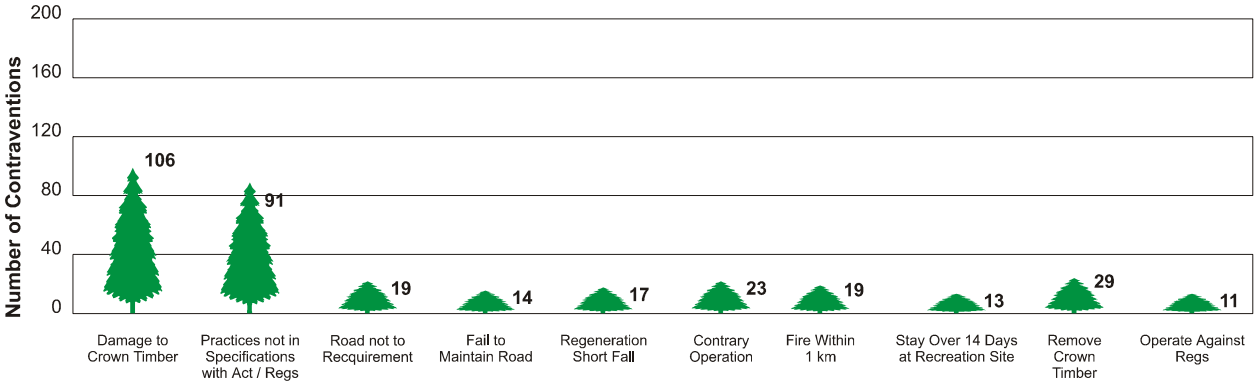
Contraventions Linked to Formal Enforcement Decisions Categorized by Forest Practice



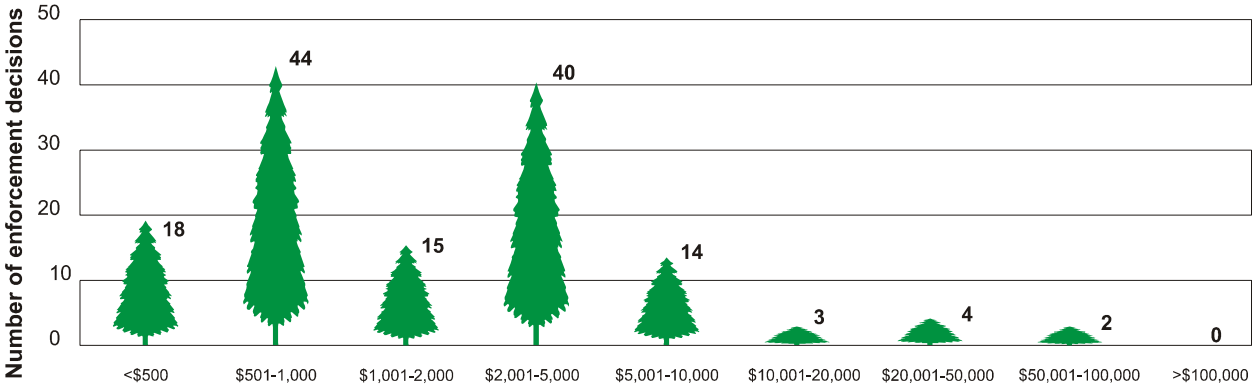
This table provides a roll-up by contravention type. Contravention type is determined by the forest practice referred to in the legislation.

Note: there is no direct correlation between the number of contraventions and the number of decisions made. For example, one incident of unauthorized harvesting may result in a stopwork order and a remediation order, the forfeiture of the timber involved, and the levying of a monetary penalty. Other incidents involving numerous contraventions may be dealt with by levying a single monetary penalty.

The Sections Most Often Contravened, Linked to Formal Enforcement Decisions as Reported in Era



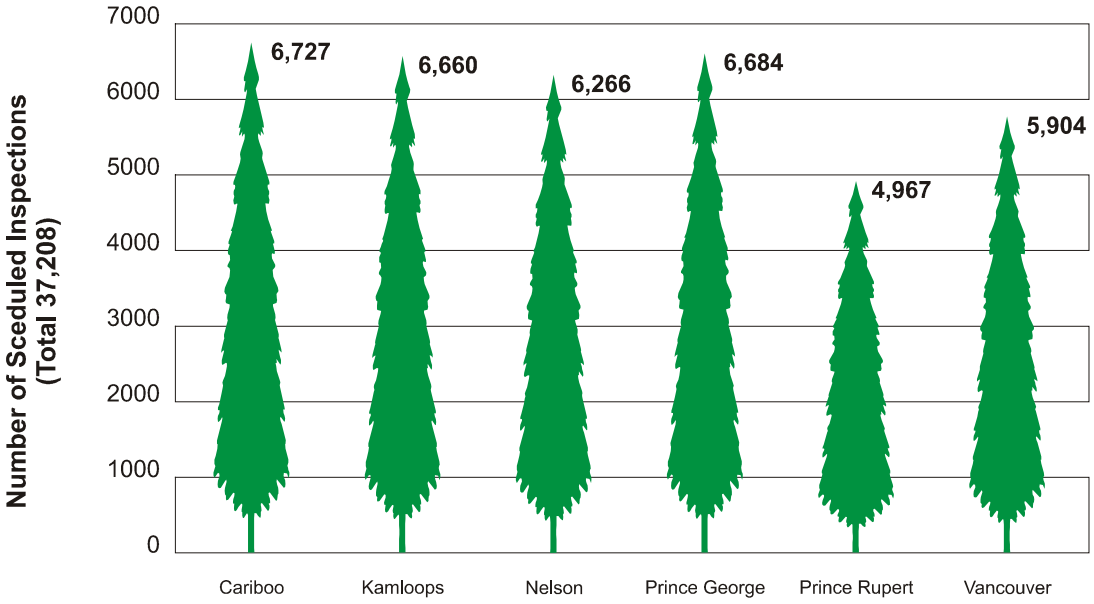
Summary of Monetary Penalties



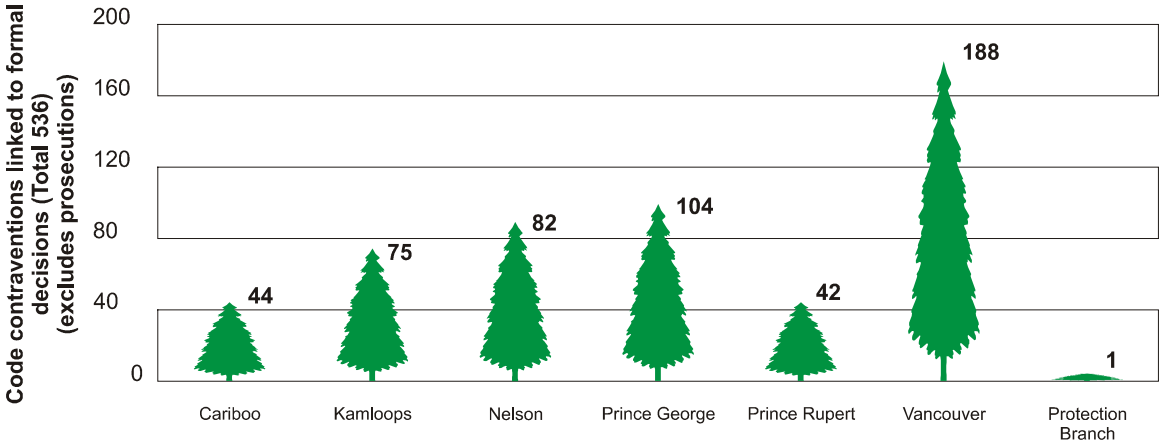
This table shows the number and range of monetary penalties that have been levied under the Code for the reporting period of June 15, 1998 to March 31, 1999.

Regional Inspections, Code Contraventions and Formal Enforcement Decisions

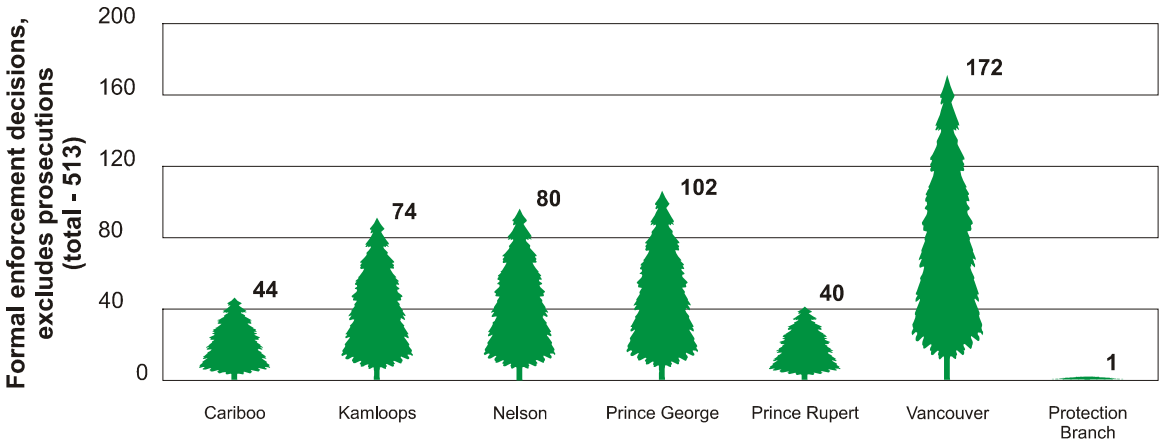
The province is divided into six administrative units called forest regions, each of that is further sub-divided into between five to nine forest districts. (See Appendix 4 for a map of the boundaries).



This first table lists, by forest region, the number of scheduled inspections conducted in harvesting, range and road related activities which were recorded in the ministry ERA database.



This second table shows, the number of Code contraventions in each region and Protection Branch that have resulted in formal enforcement decisions.

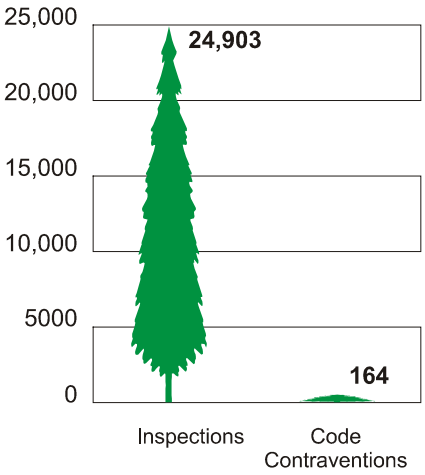


The third table shows, by region and Protection Branch, the number of formal enforcement decisions made on contraventions. As previously mentioned, there is not a one-to-one relationship between the number of contraventions determined and the number of formal decisions made.

Note: both the second and third tables relate to decisions that may be subject to review and appeal. Therefore, the numbers shown may change over time to reflect the outcome of the review and appeal process.

Inspections and Code Contraventions by Tenure Type

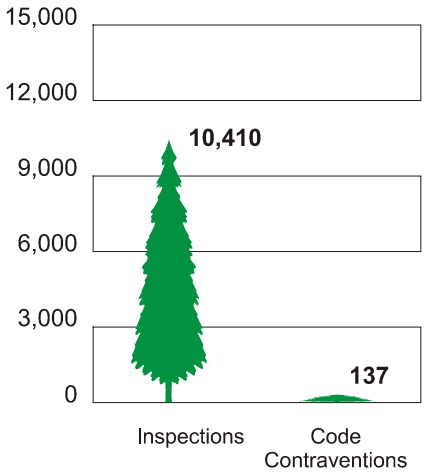
These tables show by tenure group the number of scheduled inspections conducted, and the number of Code contraventions confirmed by formal decisions



Major Tenures

(volume billed – 50,112,183 cubic metres)

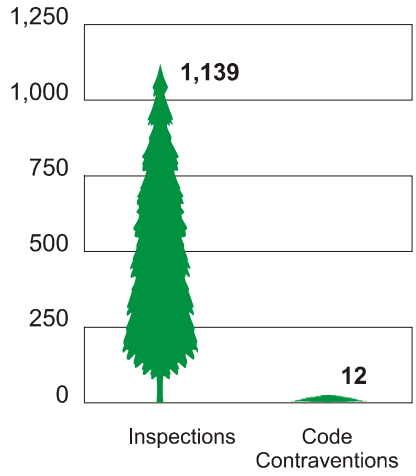
- Tree farm licences
- Timber licences
- Forest licences
- Pulpwood agreements
- Major timber sale licences



Small Business Tenures

(volume billed – 7,020,468 cubic metres)

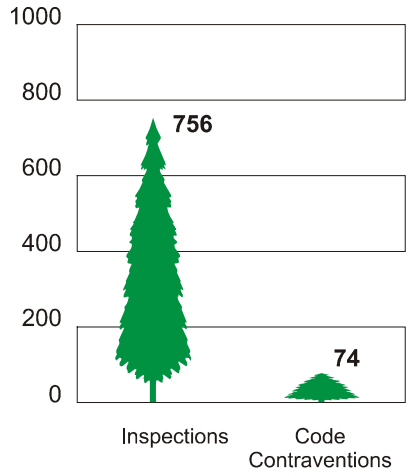
- Competitive timber sale licences
- Value-added timber sale licences
- Direct award timber sale licences
- Roads associated with small business tenures



Woodlot Licences/ Community Forest Agreements

(volume billed – 709,000 cubic metres)

- Woodlot licences and their associated roads



Other

(volume billed – 3,041,848 cubic metres)

- Licences to cut
- Special use permits
- Free use permits
- Christmas tree permits
- Private lands
- Grazing permit/licence

Non-tenure

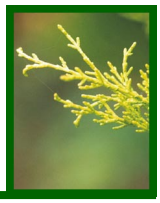
(no volume)

- Road use permit
- Log salvage

The Ministry tracking systems do not consistently track all inspections carried out on "other" forest related activities, therefore this number is approximate.

Non-tenure is a new category added to this year's Annual Report to reflect contraventions by individuals or organizations that do not have any tenure. Contravention examples include damage/removal of Crown timber, exceeding the 14-day stay at a recreation site, and disobey control device. This year's statistic is approximately the same than previous year's contraventions for this category.*



Appendix 1

Contraventions and Associated Formal Enforcement Decisions for Major Licencees

JUNE 15, 1998 – MARCH 31, 1999

The following compliance and enforcement statistics represent a snapshot in time. The ERA database is dynamic and is updated daily to reflect the most current information. Consequently, the figures in this report reflect information current to March 31, 1999. The appendix includes an update on investigations in previous reports which are now concluded as well as incidents that occurred between June 15, 1998 and March 31, 1999. All decisions shown as under review or appeal are subject to change.

Starting with this year's Annual Report, Appendix 1 lists in alphabetical order the Licencees who are forest companies holding major licences of billed volumes of more than 5 000 cubic metres annually.

The header bar lists the licencee, the amount of Crown timber attributed to the licencee, the number of compliance inspections as recorded in ERA, and the number of contraventions as determined by a senior official or as determined by an official through the issuance of a violation ticket. Where the contravention is under either a review or appeal, the case is shown in red and identified with a footnote.

Confirmed contraventions can include a monetary penalty, remediation order, suspension, cancellation or an allowable annual cut reduction. An alleged contravention such as a stopwork order or forfeiture is not considered to be a finding of a contravention. Stopwork orders are listed separately in the tables to reflect this.

Note: in the summer of 1997 the Ministry of Forests amalgamated and renamed a number of its forest districts. Due to the lag time associated with reprogramming the ministry's computer systems, the name changes were not reflected in the database until spring 1998. The changes are as follows:

1. DGO (Golden) and DRE (Revelstoke) Forest Districts were amalgamated and renamed DCO (Columbia Forest District).
2. DCA (Cassiar) and DBU (Bulkley) Forest Districts were amalgamated into DBU (Bulkley/Cassiar Forest District).
3. DDU (Duncan) and DPA (Port Alberni) Forest Districts were amalgamated into DSI (South Island Forest District).
